Frequently asked questions about One Pass

What if I'm already enrolled at a participating One Pass fitness location and am paying membership dues?

You'll need to notify the gym or fitness location that you are eligible for One Pass through your health plan. The location will use your One Pass member code or look you up through their One Pass partner portal to verify eligibility.

How will the fitness location know I have access to their gym through my One Pass membership?

Let the fitness locations staff know that your health plan includes a fitness membership through One Pass. The fitness location will verify your eligibility using your One Pass member code or through their One Pass partner portal. They will sign you up on their standard contract with zero enrollment fees and zero monthly dues. In addition, they will provide you with a membership card, key tag, or access to their mobile app. Going forward, you will check in each time using the gym's membership method.

Will I need to pay a sign-up fee at participating fitness locations?

The One Pass benefit is free of charge. You may have to sign a contract or paperwork to use their gym. Different locations have different policies and procedures.

Can I bring a caregiver with me to a participating gym or fitness location?

When searching for participating gyms and fitness locations, you can filter results to show locations that allow caregivers. Members can bring a caregiver to assist them around the gym and in using equipment. Caregivers may not work out themselves. The caregiver will sign up on the fitness location's guest registry every visit, and will not pay a guest fee.
